This distinctive village sits on the banks of the River Thames as it winds its way to feed into the River Thames. The 12th century church here was originally a chapel of the peculier of Dorchester Abbey. The bell turret is of timber which is unusual for this part of the country. Due to its timber construction housing the bells the weather can play a major part in when ringing can take place, so we were highly privileged to be given permission to ring this quarter as there is very little extrinsic ringing allowed. The only hiccup being a delayed start as one of our band initially went to St Peter's church in Drayton by mistake.
