Saturday 30th October Joining South Leigh practice again

On what was our third Saturday afternoon link up since "Freedom Day", we were lucky this time to be within a dry and sunny interlude and the A40 was also running in a more conducive manner, so we all arrived in good time on this occasion. Thanks to the added firepower of Alison and Andrew we were able to ring on all eight bells for greater part of our ninety minutes.

In a clear sign of Autumn, the former bus shelter in the village, which was still masquerading as a beach hut when we visited in September (Issue 220, Oct 6), had taken on a distinctly ghoulish Halloween inspired guise.

Other News and Upcoming Events

On Sunday evening St Nicholas held an All Souls Memorial Service where the parishioners lit candles for their loved ones.

The Marston Eco Hub, located in the grounds of the vicarage, has recently celebrated its first anniversary, with the Autumn fun morning proving yet further the great success that this community space has been. Saturday 4th December will see it host a Christmas Market, an event which we hope to be ringing bells for, whether it be tower or hand bells.
