MARSTON- BUSY DIARY AND LOOKING GOOD

Our ringing diary for July onwards is beginning to fill up, this despite nearly everything still ultimately having to be couched as "prospective".

We have nearly completed the neater and tidier return to the ringing room walls of more than a dozen framed photos, peel boards, certificates et al, some of which hadn't made it back on show since being packed away during the upheaval involved in retuning and rehangng the bells six years ago.

Well, at least I've had both my jabs

Back in the Day Saturday 19th June 2010 Outing to Itchen Valley, Hampshire

A real mixed bag of venues, with five towers running the gamut between 3 and 8 bells, plus our first port of call in Colden Common. Situated in Hawthorn Close, on the southern portion of the village, The Maybells Campanile are housed in a garage and a world away in manner of bell control and sound (being terracotta) from the norm.

Our group photo was taken at the 14th century St Andrew's church in Owslebury, a parish which straddles two ancient routes, The Pilgrims Trail and the Monarch's Way.

We also rang at Twyford, Compton, Sparsholt and Avington.
